This huge Russian Imperial Stout clocks in at 10.64% ABV and was aged in a combination of first-fill Four Roses and Ranger Creek .36 bourbon barrels. The nose features toffee, raisin, and sweet, boozy bourbon notes. Roasted malt, oak, and vanilla dominate the taste with more nuanced flavors of caramel and cherry developing as it warms. It finishes with a warming, coffee bitterness. To enjoy this beer at its finest, allow it to warm up to 55-degrees, and share it with a friend.
